Notes, Definitions, and Abbreviations

There have been some significant changes in this edition. A new Geography section has replaced the former Land and Water sections. Entries in the new section include area (total and land), comparative area, land boundaries, coastline, maritime claims, boundary disputes, climate, terrain, land use, environment, and special notes. In the Government section, a new entry on dependent areas has also been added.

Area: Total area is the sum of all land and water areas delimited by international boundaries and/or coastlines. Land area is the aggregate of all surfaces delimited by international boundaries and/or coastlines, excluding inland water bodies (lakes, reservoirs, rivers). Comparative areas are based on total area equivalents.

Boundary disputes: Every international land boundary in dispute from the "Guide to International Boundaries" published by the Department of State is included; the absence of this entry or "none" indicates no boundaries are in dispute. Additional information may follow that is border- or frontier-relevant, such as maritime disputes, geopolitical questions, or irredentist issues. However, inclusion does not necessarily constitute official acceptance or recognition by the US Government.

Contributors: The data are provided by the Central Intelligence Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Bureau of the Census, and the Department of State.

Country abbreviations:

- CAR  Central African Republic
- FRG  Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany)
- GDR  German Democratic Republic (East Germany)
- PDRY People’s Democratic Republic of Yemen (South Yemen)
- UAE  United Arab Emirates
- UK   United Kingdom
- US   United States
- USSR  Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Soviet Union)
- YAR  Yemen Arab Republic (North Yemen)

Dates of information: In general, information available as of 1 January 1987 was used in the preparation of this edition, with the following exceptions: population figures are projected for 1 July 1987, with the average annual population growth rates estimated for mid-1986 through mid-1987; major political events have been updated through 26 March 1987; military age figures are projected for 1987-91.

Maritime claims: Inclusion of a claim does not necessarily constitute official acceptance or recognition by the US Government. Also, the proximity of neighboring states may prevent some national claims from being fully extended.

Money: All money figures are in US dollars unless otherwise indicated.

Political entities: Some of the countries, entities, dependencies, areas of special sovereignty, and governments included in this publication are not independent, and others are not officially recognized by the US Government.

Within days of the departure of the multinational force (MNF), Lebanon's newly elected president, Bashir Gemayel, was assassinated. In the wake of his death, Christian militias massacred hundreds of Palestinian refugees in two Beirut camps. This prompted the return of the MNF to ease the security burden on Lebanon's weak army and security forces. In late March 1984 the last MNF units withdrew.

Lebanon continues to be partially occupied by Syrian troops. Israel withdrew the bulk of its forces from the south in 1985, retaining a 10-km deep security zone just north of the 1949 Armistice Line. Israel continues to arm and train the Army of South Lebanon (ASL), which opposes the return of Palestinian fighters to South Lebanon. The ASL has increasingly been involved in confronting Shi'a as well as leftist militias sponsored by Syria.

Sporadic fighting between Shi'a and Palestinian forces based in the refugee camps of Beirut, Sidon, and Tyre escalated during October 1986 to January 1987, finally breaking into major combat in February. At its height, fighting in West Beirut pitted the Shi'a against the Druze (their nominal allies) and the Sunnis and Palestinians. At the request of Prime Minister Rashid Karami and other Muslim members of the government, Syria dispatched troops to West Beirut to restore order.

Syria also maintains troops in the Riyadh area of the Bekaa Valley, while Special Forces units are stationed in the Matn, and in the Tripoli areas, north and northeast. In late 1985 the Syrian regime successfully negotiated a tripartite agreement among the three major rival Christian, Druze, and Shi'a militias, but implementation remains a distant possibility. The Christian and Muslim communities are deeply split from within over specific points in the agreement.

Israel and Lebanon signed a withdrawal agreement on 17 May 1983. The agreement was never implemented and was subsequently voided. A partial Israeli withdrawal and government attempts to extend authority have led to renewed factional fighting. The following description is based on the present constitutional and customary practices of the Lebanese system.

West Bank and Gaza Strip

Note: The war between Israel and the Arab states in June 1967 ended with Israel in control of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, the Sinai, and the Golan Heights. As stated in the 1978 Camp David Accords and reaffirmed by the President’s 1 September 1982 peace initiative, the final status of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, their relationship with their neighbors, and a peace treaty between Israel and Jordan are to be negotiated among the concerned parties. Camp David further specifies that these negotiations will resolve the respective boundaries. Pending the completion of this process, it is US policy that the final status of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip has yet to be determined.

In the view of the United States, the term West Bank describes all of the area west of the Jordan River under Jordanian administration before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. However, with respect to negotiations envisaged in the framework agreement, it is US policy that a distinction must be made between Jerusalem and the rest of the West Bank because of the city’s special status and circumstances. Therefore, a negotiated solution for the final status of Jerusalem could be different in character from that of the rest of the West Bank.
